The Innovation and Technology Commission and The Hongkong Bank Foundation jointly established an Innovation Technology Scholarship Award Scheme. The Scheme aims to provide recognition to outstanding undergraduates from local universities as well as opportunities to widen their exposure, with a view to encouraging them to pursue a lifelong career in the field of science and technology.

HAESL was honoured to be invited to participate as one of the 16 local internship programme supporting organizations by offering industrial training to two of the scholarship awardees. One of them completed his internship in Technical Services in May, and the other one will join us in December.
