

HAESL recognised at Occupational Safety and Health Awards

HAESL received the bronze award for Occupational Safety and Health (OSH) Report at the 9th Hong Kong Occupational Safety & Health Award Forum. The presentation ceremony was held at the Hong Kong Convention and Exhibition Centre on 21 September 2010 and was officiated by Mr Matthew Cheung, JP, Secretary for Labour and Welfare.

This year, over three hundred entries were received to compete for eight categories of awards. This award acknowledges the organisations which have demonstrated excellence in the presentation of OSH performance and information relating to community development. It also recognises the companies which have published timely, accurate, informative and well-presented annual reports for the benefit of all their key stakeholders including customers, employees, shareholders and the broader Community.

HAESL was awarded for its 2009 Sustainable Development report, titled “Best in the World, Best for the World”, which clearly illustrates HAESL’s commitment to ensure that our staff are able to enjoy working in a healthy and safe environment.

In developing the report we made use of the Global Reporting Initiative’s (GRI) guidelines as a reference point for key content and structure. The report provides comprehensive coverage of our performance highlighting key achievements in addition to the challenges faced on our journey to protect the health and safety of our colleagues and the environment and to ensure the sustainable development of our business.

HAESL is committed to realising our vision of becoming “Best in the World, Best for the World” by delighting our customers, developing our people, delivering performance, building maturity, helping our Community and protecting our environment.
